CAVALRYMAN SUPPER CLUB HIRES DECORATED OREGON CHEF

Chef Pivarunas plans to update menu, reduce prices

June 30, 2009, Laramie, WY – The Cavalryman Supper Club (the “Cav”) announced today that it has hired Chef Michael Pivarunas to lead its kitchen and culinary programs. Chef Pivarunas was formerly the Head Chef at Redmond, Oregon’s Brickhouse Steak and Raw Bar, which was called “Redmond’s great steakhouse” by the Bend Bulletin and “one of Oregon’s best restaurants” by OregonLive.com.

“We’re pleased that Mike has chosen to join the Cav,” said John M. Pope, CEO of Blue Sky Restaurants, which manages the restaurant. “His professionalism and dedication to detail have already resulted in a substantial improvement in food quality as well as in operational improvements that will allow us to reduce our menu prices.”

While Chef Pivarunas has focused to date on improving the Cav’s current menu offerings and creating daily features, he plans to update the menu this summer to include more modern steakhouse, pasta and fine dining fare at lower prices.

“Our vision for the Cav involves combining locally grown produce and beef with culinary and service excellence and creativity,” said Chef Pivarunas. “I’m excited to have the opportunity to realize that vision – and realizing it efficiently will allow us to offer creative food at a very reasonable price.”

Chef Pivarunas is a graduate with highest honors of the Western Culinary Institute. Prior to the Brickhouse, he has led a variety of casual and fine dining kitchens including Borton’s Steak and Seafood in Boise and Bon Appetit in Hillsboro, Oregon. He has acted as a guest chef for Best Cellars Catering and on television programs with Donna Brit and Julia Grey, and he has served as a culinary consultant for the Mustard Seed in Redmond, Oregon.

Chef Pivarunas is experienced in a variety of cuisines including French, Italian, Asian, American and Fusion, and has an extensive knowledge food and wine pairings with a special emphasis on Oregon and Eastern European wine varietals.
